

HASKINS LABORATORIES 75TH ANNIVERSARY:

INAUGURAL EVENT

Alvin and Isabelle Liberman Memorial Workshop

May 7th 2010

Bousfield Rm 160, Liberman Room

Department of Psychology

University of Connecticut, Storrs

1:00-1:45 p.m. Visit Al's and Isabelle's resting places to lay stones.*

Current Research on Reading

- 3:00-3:20 Language by ear and by eye: The Libermans' perspective
Michael Turvey, University of Connecticut and Haskins Laboratories
- 3:20-3:50 Ten years after the National Reading Panel Report: Evidence regarding phonics instruction
Susan Brady, University of Rhode Island and Haskins Laboratories
- 3:50-4:20 Phonological stability in young adult poor readers
Jim Magnuson, University of Connecticut and Haskins Laboratories
- 4:20-4:50 Supramodal potential as a condition for literacy
Don Shankweiler, University of Connecticut and Haskins Laboratories
- 4:50-5:20 Haskins research on reading development and reading disability: Contributions from neuroimaging
Ken Pugh, Yale University School of Medicine and Haskins Laboratories
- 5:20 General Discussion

The speakers and invited guests will gather for dinner at the Carello and Turvey home at 6:30 pm. All are welcome to join us at Sweet William's Pub beginning at 8:30 pm.

*The Jewish Cemetery is on Rte. 32, opposite the Mansfield Drive-In (just south of the intersection of Rtes. 31 and 32). Turn into the cemetery (there is no sign) and take the immediate right onto the dirt road. Park alongside the road, walk down to the end and go through the gate on the left.