

Alvin and Isabelle Liberman Memorial Workshop

May 25th 2012

Bousfield Rm 160, Liberman Room
Department of Psychology
University of Connecticut, Storrs

1:00-1:45 p.m. Visit Al's and Isabelle's resting places to lay stones.*

Applied and Conceptual Issues in Speech Perception and Production

- 3:00-3:20 Language by ear and by eye: The Libermans' perspective
Michael Turvey, University of Connecticut and Haskins Laboratories
- 3:20-3:50 Audiovisual speech perception: Lessons from special populations
Julia Irwin, Southern Connecticut State University and Haskins Laboratories
- 3:50-4:20 Speech perception differences in children with speech sound disorders: Behavioral and neurobiological observations
John Preston, Southern Connecticut State University and Haskins Laboratories
- 4:20-4:50 Aspects of Accent Acquisition
Stephen Tobin, University of Connecticut and Haskins Laboratories
- 4:50-5:20 Measuring Visual Contributions in Speech Perception
Larry Brancazio, Southern Connecticut State University and Haskins Laboratories
- 5:20 General Discussion

The speakers and invited guests will gather for dinner at the Carello and Turvey home at 6:30 pm. All are welcome to join us at Sweet William's Pub beginning at 8:30 pm.

*The Jewish Cemetery is on Rte. 32, opposite the Mansfield Drive-In (just south of the intersection of Rtes. 31 and 32). Turn into the cemetery (there is no sign) and take the immediate right onto the dirt road. Park alongside the road, walk down to the end and go through the gate on the left. Carello and Turvey will be there to guide you.