

Alvin and Isabelle Liberman Memorial Workshop

May 29, 2015

Bousfield Rm 160, Liberman Room
Department of Psychology
University of Connecticut, Storrs

1:00-1:45 p.m. Visit Al's and Isabelle's resting places to lay stones.*

“New Insights on Language by Ear and by Eye”

3:00-3:20 Language by ear and by eye: The Libermans' perspective
Michael Turvey, University of Connecticut and Haskins Laboratories

3:20-3:50 Processing Mandarin Chinese Tonal Categories in the Brain
Jeffrey Malins, Haskins Laboratories

3:50-4:20 Genetic Insights into Reading
Kaja Jasinska, Haskins Laboratories

4:20-4:50 What does radical processing tell us about Chinese character recognition
Yi-Hui Hung, Haskins Laboratories

4:50-5:20 Modeling Language Learning and Evolution
Tao Gong, Haskins Laboratories

5:20 General Discussion

The speakers and invited guests will gather for dinner at the Carello and Turvey home at 6:30 pm. All are welcome to join us at Sweet William's Pub beginning at 8:30 pm.

*Within the Jewish faith, it is customary to leave a small stone on the grave. The visitor positions the stone on the grave using his or her left hand. Placing a stone on the grave serves as a sign to others that someone has visited the grave. It also enables visitors to partake in the mitzvah tradition of commemorating the burial and the deceased. Stones are fitting symbols of the lasting presence of the deceased's life and memory.

The Jewish Cemetery is on Rte. 32, opposite the Mansfield Drive-In (just south of the intersection of Rtes. 31 and 32). Turn into the cemetery (there is no sign) and take the immediate right onto the dirt road. Park alongside the road, walk down to the end and go through the gate on the left. Carello and Turvey will be there to guide you.

